_____The Columbia Collegiate Chorale (50 voices)
Participants range from beginners to very advanced singers. Repertoire is varied ranging from oratorio, a cappella literature, anthems, and spirituals to lighter numbers. Beginning singers are encouraged to audition. The ability to read music is desirable but not essential.

_____The Pro Musica (20-24 voices)
Members of this choir are usually experienced choral singers with music reading ability. They generally receive a scholarship once they are selected for membership. Repertoire ranges widely but the emphasis is choral chamber music from the Renaissance through to the Twenty-first Century – both sacred and secular.
