

Dr. Paul Graham hails from Brooklyn New York and has been a product of Christian education as a child. He has had the opportunity of pastoring in the Northeastern Conference and currently Potomac Conference of SDA. He has had the privilege to be an adjunct professor at W.A.U. and is excited about teaching at a University level. Dr. Graham is a Certified Life Coach and completed his Doctoral studies at Liberty University in the area of Ministry Leadership.

In addition to being pastor of Community of Hope church Paul Graham serves to help churches experience revitalization. Graham most recently served as Associate Director for Pastoral Ministries. Previously, Graham spent 25 years in ministry, including as lead pastor at Restoration Praise Center (Bowie, Md.). He previously spent 13 years in the New York area engaging in youth and young adult ministries, striving to present each message with the intention of motivating his listeners to prepare themselves for the soon coming of Christ. As a result, in 2002, Graham launched Full Circle Ministries to empower youth and young adults to participate in evangelism and wholesome activities, reaching both churched and unchurched individuals. Graham loves teaching the Word of God and helping as many as possible gain a better understanding of the Gospel and stronger walk with the Master. He is married to Windy Spence -Graham and has two young adult children.
