

INTERNATIONAL CERTIFICATE OF FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY - GRADUATE

2026-2027

I understand that as an international student at Washington Adventist University, I, my parents, or my sponsors are responsible for all my expenses while I am studying in the United States. These expenses will include: tuition, room and board, books, fees, health insurance and miscellaneous personal needs.

A copy of a current bank statement or a letter from a bank official stating that myself, the parent or person acting as sponsor is a customer in good standing and has sufficient funds to meet the student's obligations is required for each source of funding and must be submitted with this certificate of financial responsibility.

The cost for one year of graduate study at Washington Adventist University is estimated to be $23,760. In addition, there is an escrow deposit of $2000(refundable after the completion of the program).

I, (student) _____, certify that I have the following funds available to me each year (up to five years) so that I will be able to complete my course of study
